Long Term Prosperity in Saskatchewan?
Unsettling Demographics.

William B. P. Robson, President and CEO, C.D. Howe Institute

Concerned about Saskatchewan's demographics? You should be. Slow labor force growth, a rise in the proportion of seniors, and changes in the composition of the population all bode ill for the economy and the tax base in the long term. Despite the current resource boom, a dramatic change in the policy framework that promotes investment is the only solution to the need to grow our population and draw more of the province's aboriginal people into the economic mainstream.

William Robson, President and CEO of the C. D. Howe will present the Institute's population and economic projections for the province and discuss policies to turn temporary economic success into durable long-term development. We look forward to Bill's presentation in respect of our most important issue – the sustainability of Saskatchewan – followed by discussion and your opportunity to present your view.

Please join us.
