Energizing Saskatchewan is a major project of the Prairie Centre created to educate the people of Saskatchewan about the energy potential of their province.

The Prairie Policy Centre is an independent Saskatchewan based research and education organization that works to advance ideas on the creation of wealth in the Prairie region. The Prairie Centre strives to bring to the public's attention fresh, independent thinking about public policy and the reforms deemed necessary for the prairie region to grow and prosper. The Centre believes that economic change is most broadly accepted and successful when the public has a good understanding of the workings of the economy and its
