Space Design Team

Taking us where no one has gone before.....

With Clayton Ruszkowski, Team Leader

We all know about the U of S teams: the football team, the wrestling team, the track & field team, the cross country team, the hockey teams, the soccer teams, the basketball teams, and the volleyball teams. But, did you know that we also have a space design team.

That's right, a space design team. And on its playing field it is just as accomplished as any Huskie Athletics team, perhaps, even more so. Of course, the field they play on is in outer space. The challenge is to build a prototype of an elevator capable of transporting people from the ground up into orbit. The prize is $500,000. The referee is NASA. And, our team is leading the league – just as you might expect of a U of S team.

Team leader, Clayton Ruszkowski comes to the Prairie Centre to tell us all about his 50 person team, the competition, and what it means to us. Please be there to show your support.
